

eLEARNING

A flexible, quick-response solution for training

Are you looking for a way to effectively train your personnel?

ESPI's interactive, multimedia eLearning system combines video and text-based documentation of your organization's procedures in a fluid environment that provides more clarity and promotes improved retention of information. You see better results.

Do you want a training package that is customized and integrated into your processes and procedures?

We don't offer you an off-the-shelf solution for training. Instead, by working with you to completely understand your organization's processes and procedures, we create a training package that encapsulates and effectively teaches your company's unique best practices.

Information is organized into short segments that aren't overwhelming, so eLearning can help you improve processes and productivity and facilitate change management.

Would you like to have the ability to retrain current employees on the fly?

Because the information is presented in modular segments on CD-ROM, you can easily update eLearning, and you don't have to hold a training session to present the new information to a large group.

Your training costs are reduced.

Employees can review training at their own pace.

Content can easily be added or updated to reflect the new processes.
